Biosensors Comments on Recent Articles and Related Litigation

Biosensors International Group, Ltd (the “Company”) announces that it has come to the Company’s attention that recent publications have again accused one of the Company’s subsidiaries, Occam International B.V. (“Occam”) of unethical conduct in connection with alleged clinical studies in India in 2004. The Company previously disclosed these allegations and an investigation was conducted by authorities in India and in the Netherlands.

An attorney representing four individuals recently filed claims against Occam in the Netherlands related to this matter, requesting product refunds and monetary damages. Occam and the Company believe these claims are without merit and will defend themselves vigorously in this action.
